On Wednesday last a fatal affray took place on eard the Ocean Steamship Company's steamer Menclous at Swalow. It appears that in the forecastle was a man known by the other seaman as the "bully" whose name we have unable to learn. On the forengen of the day named this man had a quarrel with one of the seamen. At "knock off time," five o'clook, the man who had had the quarrel with the "bully" in the forenoon was sharpening his knife, when the latter struck him. .The phrase a trenk han 'crow-mouthed' applied to persons who whenever they speak raise the angry feelings of others. The reason is that the roice of the raven or crow is imanspicious, and if heard by passengers when about to set sail, or by persons about to engage in some important business, raises their fears lest the undertaking should not prosper. It will scargely be necessary to remind our readers of omen. Cp. Dennys 'Folklore of China,' Page 33.

Persons of observing dispositions will often have noticed that pig-drivers in Canton almost invariably carry a kind of bomboo-basket in their left hand in addition to the stick in their right. The explanation is that in the narrow streets it is often necessary to rap the snouts of the animals rather smartly to prevent their entering a shop or house. The hand could not well be expised to the risk of a hearty gripe by the out again. When outside he made another disangry animal, and a stick only infortates it the nuge, so the above mentioned article is used to give the desired blow or stop the nostrils of the brute. HOME AND CHINA AFFAIRS. FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT. LONDON, 12th December, 1879. The leading topics of the week are, the late attempt on the life of the Czar, Mr. Gladstone's tour in the North, and the precarious position of the French linistry. THE CZAR AND HIS PEOPLE. Regarding the attempt on the Czar's life, the telegraph will have supplied the outlines, long ore this will reach China. It would appear that the Imperial cortege consisted, as usual under the circumstances, of two trains, one containing the Caar and his personal suite, the other the bargage and servants. The latter named, as a rule process the famecial train, for the purpose clearing the line. On the late occasion, however the engine of the baggage train was defective in spead, and the Emperor, being impatient to reach Moscow, directed that it should be shunted so that the State train might precede it. Consequently the conspirators allowed the first train to pass, and fired their mine on the baggage train. An empty house, whence the mine was spring, stands close to the line, but its examination lends no clue to the discovery of the conspirators. Three arrosts have been made, but if the particulars given be correct, I should say the police are upon the wrong scent. The Russian Authorities attempted to keep the affair entirely secret, and even now will not allow the newspapers to mention it. The exdesign must have been severe, insamuch as a cavity was made in the ground about sixteen feet square and four and a half feet deep, videlicet, 1,150 cubic feet. One carriage was smashed to atoms, and seventeen were thrown in the utmost confusion off the line, and yet the Russian W. H. Forbes, sole acting executor of the estate | Authorities insist on the public believing that nebody was either killed or hurt. As a matter of course, all the leading journal of Europe express the utmost horror at this attempt at assassination. I think such lob sided humanity should be taken at its proper value and no more. There are thousands of men in Russia who have seen their nearest and dearest relations driven like sheep to wars for the relief of Christians who were far better off than themselves. These relatives were cruelly sacrificed by tens of thousands after intense sufferings under incapable Grand Dukes, and the survivors found the result of their victory to be, the granting of a constitutional form of government to those whom they had bled to relieve, whilst they had to return to Rusia and live under the most autocratic Government conceivable. Victorions soldiers, have always been allowed to enjoy some tangible and appreciable proofs of their success, but surely history recordeth not such tokens of victory as the Russian army enpoyed after their late complete subjugation of the Turk. They little thought, after crossing the Danube, after spending a winter before Plevna. after enduring the horrors of passing the Balkons. and the forced murch to Constantinople, that the fruits of their victory would consist in the sight of the covoted city at their feet, with the masts of the British squadron in the background and A friend of mine who has mercantile conneca Russian banker who has good means of information told him that the estimate lately given of the Czar's losses by the war with Turkay (say 200,000 men and 225 millions pounds sterling) was notoriously incorrect. The number of men exceeded 300,000, and is probably 350,000. cost cannot possibly be estimated, because so much of the debt is not funded; but it certainly exceeds 300 millions, and is more probably I mention this by the way. The Czar eman. cipated the serfs, because he saw that Russians brought up under serfdom could not face French or British troops. Moreover, he has further elevated

FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT. LONDON, 12th December, 1879. THE SLAVERY QUESTION IN HONGKONG. The recent elaborate atterance of the Chief Justice of Hougkong on the question of the sale and purchase of girls and women in the Colony, published in your columns, has attracted a good deal of attention, and in some quarters has provoked excited outories. It need hardly be said that the humanitarian party are up in arms. and Hongkong has at once become, in their estimation, a blot on the fair fame of the Empire. Some of the tirades I have read are silly and extravagant, and the ignorance displayed by the writers utterly inexcusable. Even from what I know of the Colony from study of the papers, the accounts of friends, and from books, I do not esitate to denounce such articles as that in the Echo, which I forward for your edification, as clap-trap. I daresay Sir John Smale is quite right in his action, though I don't quite understand how it was he did not deal with the matter years ago: but it is obvious enough that the slavery in Hongkong is of a comparatively mild sort, that is, where it takes the form of domestic servitude. Still, it is unquestionably disgraceful that any transactions in human flesh oan b carried on under the British flag, and the sooner the iron hand of the law is remorselessly laid upon such offenders the better. What does your humanitarian Governor say on the subject? Perhaps, like some others of his class, he does not see it with the same eyes as he would were not the slaveholders Asiatios. CHINESE IN LONDON. Although many Chinese sailors arrive here in stoamers from the Far East, and the Chinese Legation has now been established in London for some three years, it is seldom that a native of the Flowery Eand is seen in the streets. It is because the Chinaman is still such a rara avis here probably that when he does appear he attracts so much unwelcome attention from the metropolitan gamins. The other evening as I was walking down the Strand to the Lycoum Theatre I noticed a noisy crowd, and on going to see the cause found it to be a poor innocent Colestial, whose pigtail was proving a source of amnsement to a gang of ourious and rough lads. greatly to their unfortunate victim's embarrassment. The intervention of one of our blue-coated guardians of the peace was promptly invoked, and the Chinaman delivered from his termenters. That long queue is a great source of trouble to the Chinaman abroad. It can so easily be used to his discomfiture. I wonder they don't always roll it up when in a strange country. CHINA AND HAWAII.

I see by the papers last received from China that the Chinese Government are attempting to open up diplomatio relations with King Kalakaa. the dusky potentate of the little island kingdom of Hawaii. What man would be wise lot him drink of the river That bears on its waters the record of time A message to him every wave can deliver To teach him to creep till he knows how to climb, Who heeds not experience trust him not; tell him The scope of one mind can trilles achieve; The weakest who draws from the mind will excel him-

The strength of mankind is the wisdom they leave For peace do not hope; to be inst you must break Still work for the minute and not for the year. " When benour comes to you be ready to take it, But reach not to seize it before it is near. Be silent and safe; silence never betrays you,

Be true to your word and your work and your friend But least trust in him who is foremost to praise you. Nor judge of a day till it draw to the ond. Stand creet in the vale, nor exult from the mountain, Take gifts with a sigh; most men give to be paid "I had" is a heartache; "I have! is a fountain; You're worth what you saved, not the millions you

Be true to yourself, or your plans will miscarry,

Your wife keep a sweetheart instead of a tease Rule children by reason, not red; and mind, marry Your girlwhen you can, and your boy when you please. Steer straight as the wind will allow, but be ready To year just a point to let travellers pass: Each sees his own star-a stiff course is too steady When this one to meeting goes, that one to mass.
